Buffalo Bayou has been integral to Houston's history and continues to be a vital resource for the community. The Buffalo Bayou Partnership (BBP) is the non-profit revitalizing the area, working towards comprehensive cleanup and maintenance programs, and ensuring that the bayou remains a unique waterfront for the benefit of all.

Visit buffalobayou.org or call 713.752.0314 for more information. As a non-profit organization, BBP relies on the support of individuals, organizations, and businesses to continue its work.

Audio Tour (BBP) offers visitors a guided tour along the bayou. This map will guide you as you walk, run, cycle, paddle, and enjoy the many parks and historic sites along the waterway. The area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat.

Memorial Fountain’s brass starburst of pipes sprays joggers, cyclists, and walkers, and the Gus S. Wortham Green Tree Nature Area is located just south of Memorial Drive. The heavily forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect.

Lost Lake is on the site of a former pond that was lost in the creation of the bayou. It was restored in the 1930s and provides a peaceful place to enjoy the water and wildlife. Lost Lake is on the site of a former pond that was lost in the creation of the bayou. It was restored in the 1930s and provides a peaceful place to enjoy the water and wildlife.

Every evening at sunset, more than 250,000 Mexican free-tailed bats emerge from crevices in the Waugh Drive Bridge. A large expanse includes 25-foot tall concrete columns set row upon row, reaching out into a spreading concrete canopy. The 87,500-square-foot drinking-water reservoirs were built in 1926, and they provided decades of service until it was decommissioned.

The Wortham Insurance Visitor Center and Terrace at Waugh Drive is a major park entry point made possible by a gift from the Wortham Insurance Foundation. The Wortham Insurance Foundation Spring, and the Charles Tapley, FAIA Overlook offer visitors a place to relax and enjoy the view. Houston landscape architect Charles Tapley designed this two-acre area.

BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect. This area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat.

Memorial Fountain’s brass starburst of pipes sprays joggers, cyclists, and walkers, and the Gus S. Wortham Green Tree Nature Area is located just south of Memorial Drive. The heavy forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect.

BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect. This area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat. The heavily forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors.

Memorial Fountain’s brass starburst of pipes sprays joggers, cyclists, and walkers, and the Gus S. Wortham Green Tree Nature Area is located just south of Memorial Drive. The heavy forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect. This area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat.

Memorial Fountain’s brass starburst of pipes sprays joggers, cyclists, and walkers, and the Gus S. Wortham Green Tree Nature Area is located just south of Memorial Drive. The heavily forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect. This area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat.

Memorial Fountain’s brass starburst of pipes sprays joggers, cyclists, and walkers, and the Gus S. Wortham Green Tree Nature Area is located just south of Memorial Drive. The heavy forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect. This area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat.

Memorial Fountain’s brass starburst of pipes sprays joggers, cyclists, and walkers, and the Gus S. Wortham Green Tree Nature Area is located just south of Memorial Drive. The heavy forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect. This area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat.

Memorial Fountain’s brass starburst of pipes sprays joggers, cyclists, and walkers, and the Gus S. Wortham Green Tree Nature Area is located just south of Memorial Drive. The heavy forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect. This area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat.

Memorial Fountain’s brass starburst of pipes sprays joggers, cyclists, and walkers, and the Gus S. Wortham Green Tree Nature Area is located just south of Memorial Drive. The heavy forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect. This area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat.

Memorial Fountain’s brass starburst of pipes sprays joggers, cyclists, and walkers, and the Gus S. Wortham Green Tree Nature Area is located just south of Memorial Drive. The heavy forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect. This area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat.

Memorial Fountain’s brass starburst of pipes sprays joggers, cyclists, and walkers, and the Gus S. Wortham Green Tree Nature Area is located just south of Memorial Drive. The heavy forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect. This area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat.

Memorial Fountain’s brass starburst of pipes sprays joggers, cyclists, and walkers, and the Gus S. Wortham Green Tree Nature Area is located just south of Memorial Drive. The heavy forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect. This area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat.

Memorial Fountain’s brass starburst of pipes sprays joggers, cyclists, and walkers, and the Gus S. Wortham Green Tree Nature Area is located just south of Memorial Drive. The heavy forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect. This area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat.

Memorial Fountain’s brass starburst of pipes sprays joggers, cyclists, and walkers, and the Gus S. Wortham Green Tree Nature Area is located just south of Memorial Drive. The heavy forested trail is a nature-lover’s paradise offering a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. BBP later renamed the bayou and surrounding park area in honor of Wortham, a highly regarded Houston landscape architect. This area is one of Houston's most popular outdoor spaces for cyclists, and walkers offering a cool respite from the heat.